Re: Burns and Roe Personal Injury Trust – Deadlines for Responding to Deficiency Notifications

Dear Claimants' Counsel:

This letter is to inform Claimant's Counsel that effective March 11, 2016, the Burns and Roe Asbestos Personal Injury Trust will allow claimants or claimants' counsel 180 days from the date of first notification of a deficiency to provide curative information. If sufficient response is not received within 180 days from the first deficiency notice, a claim will be deemed automatically deferred for a period of up to three years, after which the claim will be deemed withdrawn if the claimant or claimants counsel has taken no further action.

Upon deferral or withdrawal, the statute of limitations for filing against the Trust will be tolled for any subsequent re-submission of the claim, provided that the statute was still running as of the date of the original submission to the Trust.

The deadlines for existing claims affected by this policy will be extended by 180 days from this date of notice.
